

User Data Governance

Coro monitors and detects violations of sharing and access to sensitive data by an organization's users, in cloud storage and via email. Users in Coro are categorized as:

- protected: Added individually or as part of a user group for active protection within the Coro console.
- protectable: Exists in the user directory of protected applications but are not explicitly declared for protection in the Coro console.

To learn more about adding users for protection, see users and groups.

The User Data Governance dashboard panel displays current ticket activity summaries for all protected users:

